6. In sum, I do not think that the time is ripe for the USG to support the renewal of negotiations over Polish membership in the IMF. Proposed talking points for your discussion of this issue with the Secretary of State and with Mr. McFarlane are attached.

Poland and the IMF

John - I agree with Port's partly for the reasons the timing is wrong. but also because the IMF is a throwaway concession to now. If the Administration decides to undertake new initiatives in the next year or so and comes away with a quiver full of failures, this is a useful concession. But now, we get nothing; next year, as part of larger political stakes, it might serve a useful purpose for us.
